

NeXtime is greener

Green Time, part II

Sustainability, energy security and climate change are challenging issues that are compelling every business and every individual to rethink the ways in which they employ energy, source materials, manage waste and to redefine what it means to be “greener. The “Green Time” project within NeXtime aims to encourage our staff and our business partners to support the company’s efforts to embed sustainable development in NeXtime’s policies, and in our daily practice and in our daily operations.

We put business units that have initiatives and ideas for energy saving in contact with each other and share best practice. Here are some other examples of our green efforts:

NeXtime is increasingly sourcing greener solutions and driving the use of ECO-friendly materials. We introduced the Cuckoo Do-It-Yourself, a carton cuckoo clock made from 100% recycled paper.

Our marketing department is driving a digital online catalogue to replace the printed catalogue, see our catalogue online: <http://nextime.eu/site/en/catalogue>.

Our sales department aims to limit the amount of travel and further reducing the fuel consumption of our vehicle fleet by only allowing our sales people to drive fuel efficient cars.

All our departments drive an efficient use of paper and our finance department promotes e-invoicing and we look to send no more paper invoices by the end of 2010. Click here to subscribe, and join our Green Time project!
